FELLOWSHIPS AT THE SCHOOL AT ATHENS

All candidates for Fellowships at the American School of Classical Studies at Athens (not including the Fellowship in Architecture supported by the Carnegie Institution) will hereafter be required to pass examinations in Modern Greek and in three of the following subjects: (1) Greek Architecture, (2) Greek Sculpture, (3) Greek Vases, (4) Greek Epigraphy, (5) Pausanias and the Topography and Monuments of Athens, (6) General Greek Archaeology, i.e. Prehellenic Antiquities of Greece, Terra-cottas, Coins, Bronzes, Jewellery, etc., and Painting.

At the time of announcing his desire to take the examinations (February 1), each candidate should inform the chairman of the Committee on Fellowships which three of the six subjects he selects.

Candidates are strongly urged to submit to the Committee on Fellowships any papers on archaeological subjects that they have written, whether such papers have been printed or not. The award of Fellowships will be in part determined by the quality of the papers submitted.

HAROLD N. FOWLER,

Chairman of the Committee on Fellowships.
